Introduction

ALBERTO VETTORETTI

Partner
Dezan Shira & Associates

Singapore's manufacturing sector is well-positioned to face the challenges and reap the benefits of Industry 4.0. As an established regional powerhouse for advanced manufacturing, the country has already embraced Industry 4.0 and is steadily moving its production base up the value chain.

By making use of technologies that are part of Industry 4.0, Singapore's world-class manufacturing system has become the fourth largest global exporter of high-tech goods, ranging from medical devices and pharmaceutical products to electronics.

In this issue of ASEAN Briefing magazine, we provide an overview of the factors favoring Singapore's ability to adopt Industry 4.0 and key advantages as a result. We then explore the country's sub-sectors with high growth potential under Industry 4.0. Finally, we highlight the incentives available to foreign businesses for innovation, research, and capacity upgrades.

With offices located across Southeast Asia and years of experience helping foreign enterprises set up operations in Asia, Dezan Shira & Associates is well positioned to assist your company in entering ASEAN markets. For more information, please email us at asia@dezshira.com.

With kind regards,

Alberto Vettoretti
